

Laura Takacs

Laura Takacs is a 2004 graduate of the University of Washington School of Social Work and School of Public Health. Since graduating, Laura has worked both internationally and domestically, with those impacted by war. Currently, Laura serves as the Clinical Director at Virginia Mason Medical Center, Grief Services, where she provides both individual and group therapy to the bereaved after a sudden, traumatic death, utilizing the Restorative Retelling model.

Prior to her role at Grief Services, Laura worked in the Middle East where she utilized Restorative Retelling while working with Syrian and Iraqi refugees. Laura has presented the Restorative Retelling model in the United States, Canada and the Middle East.

Laura holds her LICSW and MPH and has completed a post-graduate Certificate in Psychological Trauma from the University of Washington.

